

Lysis and Philoctetes - Two Works on Friendship

Plato and Sophocles

What is loved in the love of friendship? In this Symposium we will consider two seminal Ancient Greek works on friendship: Plato's Lysis, a short dialogue in which Socrates considers what friendship is; and Sophocles' play Philoctetes, in which a man must decide between friendship and betrayal during the Trojan War.

Dates: Thursdays: 7/16, 7/23, 7/30

Time: 6:30 p.m. – 8:00 p.m.

Cost: $15 per session ($45)

*Spaces are limited so please register in advance, in person.
There is no charge for first-time participants.*